CROSS-WORD PUZZLE 147

How to solve a cross-word puzzle

When the correct letters are placed in the white squares, the puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "Horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white squares up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "Vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black squares. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete terms are indicated in the definitions.

FRIENDS

Friends have a little social beside me
When my life is dark and drear,
Friends have I who offer comfort
My dearest soul to cheer.

I have friends who with me linger,
On the brink of bitter weal,
Speaking words of cheer and comfort,
While the muddy currents flow.

'Tis with these my spirit lingers,
For these I have my heart's desire,
'Tis the tenderest compassion
That can form the fountain of life.

'Tis by these I find solace,
Through the darkest hours of life,
'Tis for these I find a solace,
In their darkest hours of strife.

THE HOME PAPER

When I packed my portmanteau I said
I am sick of the ever-changing scene,
Of dissension and scandal and blame,
And am going to live in peace and ease.

For a month I'll forget there is aught
Save harmony under God's dome,
But I find that I can't get on here
If I don't get the paper from home.

The best minds have commended, I said,
All the books I am taking to read,
'Tis the biography, fiction and verse;
With a pipe they'll all be in need.

But I sit without turning a page
Of the latest quack or the surt
In all ways is best for a while,
Though a new friend I find much to meet.

That I mean someone real and true,
And another new friend suggests close
To the beach in the gathering gloom,
True as truth, but the day is a dud.

When I don't get the paper from home.

SURPRISE AND ANNOUNCEMENT PARTY

A birthday surprise party was tendered Miss Dorothy Goodwin, Monday evening, on the event of her birthday. She was invited "out" to spend the evening and was called home for company, and when she arrived, she found the rooms filled with young people and a shower of congratulations awaited her. During her absence the rooms had been decorated with autumn leaves and the dining room was also decorated with pink and white crepe paper. Streamers were suspended from the chandelier to each place, and when the guests were summoned to the dining room, they found there a double significance to the gathering, for the place cards served to announce the engagement of Miss Dorothy and Jack Bartlett. More congratulations followed. Two birthday cakes were presented the honor guest and these were cut and served with ice cream. Many gifts were presented.

In the gathering were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Russell, Miss Eleanor Bartlett, Dale Allen, Miss Bertha Towne, George Stevens, Miss Inez McAllister, Kenneth Aldrich, Miss Mabel Poss, Kenneth Goodwin, Jack Bartlett and the guest of honor. The evening passed happily with sociability, games and cards.

Mrs. John Lasselle, her daughter, Mrs. Ethel Lapham, and Zephie, Mrs. Will Gary and Mrs. Arthur Gary took a trip to Lewiston, Monday afternoon.

Joe Dubey and Will Gary have put in a new drain pipe at Eugene Hadden's place on Pleasant Street and have taken up and unstopped a drain at Miss Edith M. Smith's house on Deering Street.

Harl True's orchestra has been hired to play for the Fish and Game Association supper and dance, Friday night.

A. A. French of Attleboro, Mass., writes Mel Sampson he will be unable to come to Norway for a game dinner this fall. For the past four years Mr. French and party have taken a run up here for a feast at Beals Tavern during the hunting season. His interest in a "duck blind" on the Crpe is the reason for omitting the trip.

He Guesses Just Right

One of our good friends wrote in last summer, as follows:

"I'm of the opinion that you don't care any more for the fish than I do. I do. I like them, range, the freedom from restraint and the petty humdrum of modern life. It's a fine thing to be able to throw away an incidentally, it serves to recharge your battery, so to speak. I only hope it will give you so much 'pep' that we'll hear a lot from you in 'Gambon's' Sportsman' Column' along about huskin' time."

The Hunt Tavern at Hunt's Corner

Albany—

"In that mansion used to be a fine hunting lodge, and it was a fine place to be. Great fires up the chimneys roared, and the air was filled with the smell of roasting meat. In the morning of the historical old Tavern, Albany loses a familiar landmark so closely associated with the family life in the town, a general feeling of sadness prevails which new-comers cannot quite understand that it seems like parting with a staunch old friend.

Through all these years it has withstood the fierce storms and travelers climbing the hill were cheered by the light, like a beacon in its windows. "Did'st hear the old house speak?" It was on the road to Portland, and the stage coach stopped there and many of the grandfather's tales of the doings at the Tavern at Hunt's Corner (for that's how it got its name). Then it became a private dwelling and has had many different owners but the air of hospitality remained and it is said no one in need of food and rest was ever turned from its door. It has been the scene of weddings, births and oft-times has been visited by the "grim specter" and there has been Christmas frolics, husking bees, Circles, Lawn Parties, and social dances (in old times styled a "hoe-down") and neighborly visits. There have been visitors from many climes entertained. It has been the home of people of note, writers, poets and ministers, all people of the town, a fine farm which has yielded so much "to keep things going," seems to wonder why it should be given that deserted appearance.

Many buildings have gone down but the old "Tavern" has become a tradition. He had all panes of glass, certain old size, when asked why he did it, quickly and wittily replied, "So a certain individual could not make use of any of the panes of glass if tempted to appropriate them."

ROOSEVELT LETTERS PRIZED POSSESSION

Roosevelt day, officially set for Thursday, October 27th, will take on an added significance for Mrs. Alma Pendexter Hayden, of Pollard Ave., Charlotte, Rochester, N. Y., who cherishes among her dearest possessions personal notes from both the Colonel and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt.

When the Roosevelts' son, Quentin Roosevelt, lost his life in France, Mrs. Hayden composed a short poem entitled "A Man's Chance," in which she expressed her sympathy for their loss. The poem was published in a newspaper and its author sent a clipping to Colonel Roosevelt. She received a card in the Colonel's handwriting, thanking her for her sympathy.

Later Mrs. Hayden wrote another poem, "The Grave of Quentin Roosevelt," which was also published and sent to his parents. Mrs. Roosevelt replied with a personal card on which she wrote "Thank you very much for sending me the verse and your letter, which gives me courage."

MAINE APPLE CROP GOOD

Maine and Vermont are the only New England States producing more apples than in 1926, according to estimates of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The crop for New England is below that of last year and in other states is estimated one-half or more under last year's harvest.

The New England apple grower will get less competition than usual from such important shipping sections as New York and Virginia. The market for good fruit has been fairly strong so far this fall and should continue firm through the winter. This is especially true since the quality of apples this year is none too good and the percentage of apples suitable for storage is less than average. The wet summer season caused a great deal of scab to develop. There has also been considerable insect injury. The supply of A grade apples is short. In regard to varieties, the McIntosh crop in New England is somewhat larger than last year while the Baldwin crop will be very small.

The Maine commercial apple crop is forecast at 454,000 barrels compared with 450,000 barrels harvested last year and 493,000 the five year average. Scab has been prevalent as well as other insect and diseases. High quality apples are unusually scarce and should command good prices. For New England the commercial apple crop is forecast at 1,488,000 barrels is 81 per cent. less than harvested last year and about 18 per cent. below average.

A good attendance and a very interesting program was reported of the last Grange meeting held Thursday evening, Oct. 26th.

Oxford Pomona will be entertained by Bethel Grange, Tuesday, Nov. 1st. The day was snowy last year, what will it be this year will be known later.

Lesson for October 30

AMOS DENOUNCES SIN

(World's Temperance Sunday.)

LESSON TEXT—Amos 2:1-16

GOLDEN TEXT—Seek good and not evil, that ye may live, and so the Lord God of hosts shall be with you as ye have spoken.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Punishment of Sin

JUNIOR TOPIC—What God Thinks of Sin

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why the Drink Traffic is Prohibited

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Intemperance and Associated Sins

Amos, a shepherd and trader in (Amos 7:14, 15) was called to preach by God. He was neither in the prophetic line, nor trained in the prophetic schools.

1. The Sins of Judah (2:4-5)

In the first part of the book Amos sets forth judgments upon the surrounding nations. The aim, however, is to show that there is no escape from God's judgment. The nation or individual that sins shall surely be judged (Num. 32:23).

1. They despised the law of the Lord. To despise means to scorn, to disregard. To despise God's law is to directly against God. There is no escape from judgment for such as do this (Heb. 10:25, 26).

2. Failed to keep the Lord's commandments (v. 4).

Disobedience logically follows the despising of God's law. It not only robs of blessings in this life, but results in eternal destruction (II Thess. 1:7-10).

3. Lies caused them to err (v. 4).

Because they despised God's law they fell into lying errors. Deceit and conduct are inseparable. Thinking wrong precedes doing wrong.

4. Judgment upon Egypt (v. 5)

This was literally fulfilled in a century and a half later in the capture of Jerusalem by the Chaldeans.

1. The Sins of Israel (2:6-8)

The message of the prophet now comes directly to the northern kingdom.

1. "Sold the righteous for silver" (v. 6).

The judge, for a bribe of silver, declared the innocent to be guilty.

2. "Sold the poor for a pair of shoes" (v. 6).

Likely this refers to the practice of selling into slavery the debtor who could not pay for a pair of shoes which had been sold to him on time.

3. "Pants" after the dust of the earth on heads of the poor (v. 6).

The word "pant" means to eagerly desire. So covetousness has these men become that they even grasped after the earth which the down-trodden poor cast upon their heads in mourning because of their misery.

4. Turned aside the way of the meek (v. 7).

These grasping rich men turned aside the meek; that is, those who would stand up for their rights.

5. Licentiousness (v. 7).

So notorious were the immoralities practiced that they were even guilty of incestuous prostitution. This was not merely the case of falling into sensual sin, but was indulged in with the definite purpose of insulting God, provoking His holy name.

6. Idolatry (v. 8)

They not only frequented the place of idolatrous worship, but lay down on the clothes taken from the poor, and drank wine bought with money extorted from the poor in unjust taxes.

11. God's Goodness to Israel (2:9-12)

God's manifold blessings and His goodness are never presented in contrast with the base practices of the nation, in order to heighten the picture of their ingratitude.

1. Destroyed their enemies (v. 9).

The Ammonites stand for all powerful peoples whom God removed from Palestine to make room for Israel.

2. Delivered from cruel bondage (v. 10).

God set them free from the cruel slavery of the Egyptians. Every redeemed one has been set free from a more cruel bondage than that of the Israelites at the hands of the Egyptians (John 8:34-36).

3. Led them for forty years in the wilderness (v. 10).

The wilderness wandering is a most wonderful story, showing the tender and faithful leading of God.

4. Raised up the prophets (v. 11).

God not only bestowed great honor upon them in this, but favored them in raising up prophets from among their own offspring. The sacred story not only turned the prophets free from their lives of separation but gave them the wine of drink.

Faith

Faith never refers to self, but always to the Word of God. There are many who want to feel that they are believers before they have believed the truth, and to feel that they are safe, before they trust in Jesus.

Our Faith

When the devil tries our faith it is that he may crush it or diminish it; but when God tries our faith it is to establish and increase it.—Marcus Rainsford.

Our Trip Down East

Eastport to Rockland
By Ralph M. Bacon

Eastport was in sight. From the waters of Passamaquoddy bay the city presented a very beautiful appearance, situated as it is on a high point of land overlooking the bay. A long line of sardine factories lined the waterfront and smoke was rising from a few but most of the factories. The season was late this year. It was low tide and as our boat approached, the wharves appeared about twice as high from the water as in most places. This region has the highest tides in the world running anywhere from eighteen to twenty-seven feet.

We were now about to enter upon the most exciting part of our trip. Although the waters on the bay had seemed very calm there was certainly some swell in among the wharves. In order to land, it became necessary to get from our freight boat into a small row boat and take a short ride around to another landing place. The waters were tossing about rather furiously, it seemed to us. My sister made the boat first, I followed, and then our good captain soon had us ashore
but cannot say that we were very good sailors. I never was seasick but a little more tossing in a small boat and I am quite sure I should have been seeing two oceans instead of one.

We soon had headquarters established in the new Quoddy Hotel with rooms facing Eastport's beautiful harbor and bay.

Eastport itself is an island, although connected with the mainland by a main land.

All around the outskirts of the town are tiny rough shacks which people occupy during the sardine canning season and then close up for the rest of the year.

Prosperity did not seem so much in evidence in Eastport as one could wish for.

Perhaps the many unexpected houses
gave the place an appearance of poverty that it did not deserve. But here as at Calais were signs of a new day coming.

The building of the Cooper dams could not fail to be a boon for the whole section. Eastport has a most wonderful harbor and the scenery is all that could be desired. Down the bay are the three Canadian islands of Campbell, Grand Manan and Deer Island. To the Northeast are the hills and mountains of New Brunswick. Two miles across the bay to the right is Lubec, although it is over forty miles away by land.

The soil all about Eastport seems very fertile. We could not help noticing that potatoes, garden stuff were much further along than in Oxford County. The sardine industry, however, is what makes Eastport. There are twelve canning factories here besides a few fishing, machine shops and lumber mills.

Eastport hospitality is unbounded.

The folks are just glad to have you there.

Eastern Maine does not need to cultivate hospitality; it already has family.

There is something about the sea the mountains and the great open spaces that develops the finest people in the world and because of this on every holiday.

It has so many mountains and so much seascap our state of Maine has produced some of the best folks to be found anywhere hospitable down east Yankees.

Eastport, Maine has its share of them.
Wednesday morning we decided to visit Lubec. It is a delightful sail, but a very short one for the little steamer that serves as a ferry. Lubec is very nearly the size of Eastport but seems more prosperous. There are many sardine and fish-curing establishments, the canneries are well kept up and there are many beautiful houses. Lubec enjoys the reputation of being a town with a splendid community spirit and there were evidences of this on every holiday. It also has the honor of being the most easterly town in the U. S. A.

It was nearly a five mile trip by auto from Lubec village to Quoddy Head, but it was well worth the time and expense.
We never shall forget that trip. Densely wooded hills, fields covered with the brightest flowers, and an ever green blue. Truly the most eastern point in the U. S. A. It is beautiful beyond description.

There make boats and cedar chests and all sorts of interesting things at Lubec. Toy boats to be sure, but built like real boats and they certainly can sail. It was with regret that we had to cut our visit so short. Dinner at the hotel, then back to Eastport in the afternoon.

It was hot at Eastport but cool compared with Boston. However the weather men put over the hottest for many a year and the two nights spent there were warm enough for comfort.

Thursday morning found us on the road to Bar Harbor. Our route was through the Indian village to the Passamaquoddy tribe, through Perry and Pen-brooke to Ayer Junction, where we changed to the train from Calais. From this point we retraced our route over which we came back to Dillsboro, where we arrived about 12, established headquarters, had dinner and were ready to see the sights.

I had formed ideas about Bar Harbor which I soon found were all wrong. The town itself is not much different from other up-to-date Maine towns of the same size. The natives were just Maine folks.
The prices were very reasonable.

Every citizen of Maine should if possible visit Bar Harbor and Lafayette National Park. The scenery is beyond wonderful. It is easy to understand why Bar Harbor has become Maine's greatest summer resort. In the near vicinity are all the attractions which have made Maine the summer playground of the nation. Lofty mountain peaks, fresh water lakes, forests, rugged coast and sandy beaches, all these within the limits of this wonderful island.

We took the forty mile bus ride around the island in the afternoon. It is indeed the combination of all the glorious scenery of Maine within a very small area.

It was a cloudy afternoon so we were not seeing the beautiful region at its best.

Back in Bar Harbor we encountered a terrible thunder shower early in the evening. It cut off the lights and for a long time the town was in darkness. Finally they came on and then a strange thing happened. The fire whistle blew and out went the lights again. At last they came on to stay. It was a hot night in Bar Harbor, but from the headlines
the Boston papers rejoiced that we were in Maine.

We had just time enough to take part of the shore walk in
